About the third day after these manifestations. commenced, my wife brought a ham of mentions the house, and laid it on the table, and stepped to the other side of the room, when it was caraction. The old parties, when they tolerated the action of secret caucuses, never dreamed that an entire party would start up coasisting of a system af caucuses, and nothing else from one end of the Union to the other. Partial secres; is alleged to justify total mystery. Because a man may and ought to conceal some things, he is right in concealing everything, whather the is right in concealing everything, whether the world has a right to know it or not. When the world bas a right to know it or not. When the world will agree that they were corruptly governed for personal and private ends.

This was done while there was no person near it. The same table has, since that, been thrown on its side without human agency, and often been made to dance about while the family were eating around it. At one time dishes, knives and forks, were thrown from the dishes, knives and forks, were thrown from the table to the opposite side of the room, breaking the dishes to piece.

on another occasion the voice requested Mrs. Richardson to remove the dishes from the table, which was done immediately, when the table commenced rocking violently back and forward, and centinued the metion, so that the dishes could not be washed upon the floor, upon which a number of them flow from the table to pieces. What crockery remained we attempted oer floor over head, and were thus broken to pieces. What crockery remained we attempted to socure by placing it in a emphorat, and that the doors, which were violently thrown open, and the dishes flewlike lightning, one after another, against the opiosis side, and broke to pieces. At another time a drawer is the table was, while there was no person near it, drawn out, and a pate that had been placed there earlied across the room and broken against the opposite wall. And this kind of demonstration has confined until nearly all the crockery about the house has been troken and desarged.
